

Clay's Corner

"...but as he who called you is holy, you also be holy in all your conduct, since it is written, "You shall be holy, for I am holy." - 1 Peter 1:15-16

That's twice now that I've been mistaken for Santa by young children.

Yesterday, after being in court for a jury duty summons, Mary and I went to HEB to purchase more fruit for our noon-time smoothie. And while I was looking into the refrigerator section for my particular brand of orange/pineapple juice blend, I heard a young voice behind me. I didn't pay much attention at first; there were a lot of people there after all. But Mary called my attention to what was going on behind me.

When I turned around, there was a gasp and a great big smile that came from a youngster, maybe three or four years old. And his mom was telling him, "See I told you!"

So, I strolled over to where he was sitting in the buggy and began to chat him up a little. I want to emphasize "a little" because as soon as I asked him if he had been a good boy this year he emphatically nodded his head and began to tell me exactly what he wanted for Christmas and then began to ask me if he was going to get it and tell me what he was going to do once he got it.

What great fun it was to bring a little joy into this youngun's life.

But it also set me to thinking. I am happy to be mistaken for Santa Claus. It's the beard that does it. I've also been mistaken for Uncle Si. It's my craziness and the beard that does that.

But the thing that would bring me the most joy, would be if I were to be mistaken for being Jesus. That's what I want. I want to be so much like Jesus that someone would ask me, "Mister, are you Jesus?"

So far that hasn't happened. It hasn't been for lack of trying. Maybe I'm just not trying hard enough. I'll work on it and continue to pray about it.

"Lord, make me the reflection of your Son so much so that whenever I meet someone they at least walk away wondering if they have indeed been in the presence of "The Holy One". Teach me Lord to live like He did and to share like He did and to love like He did so much that it becomes hard to see a difference between He and I. - In His name I pray, Amen."
